ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS REWARD.

FOR apprehending and bringing to justice THOMAS JONES, about five feet eleven inches high, well made, has a wound in one of his hips, appears as if made by a ball, a rupture in the groin, on the opposite side from the wound, pink marked, dark or sandy colored hair. He stole from the subscriber on the night of the 11th instant, in Mason county, about six miles from Washington, one superfine broad cloth coat of a tea colour; one blue second do. one stripped cambric do. and one calico do.
One dark gray, red and yellow tarnished waistcoat; one black floreneine do. one white jean do.
one buff cloth do. two striped muslinette do. one pair of black floreneine breeches; one pair of cassimer do. three pair plain and one striped nanken do. one pair fati-net do. five shirts ruffled at the breast and three plain; five muslin cravats; two pair white silk hose; one pair clouded silk and cotton do. two pair white cotton do. and three pair white yarn do. one pair of boots and plated spurs; one rifle gun, and seven dollars cash.
It is supposed he stole a sorrel horse fourteen hands three inches high, a large ear or small blaze, a large scar on one of his thighs, and a blemish in one of his eyes. The above reward will be given for the thief with the above articles together with the horse, or EIGHTY-THREE DOLLARS without the horse.

Anderson Doniphan.
March 12.
* * It is generally believed the above mentioned Thomas Jones, is MOSES MORGAN that notorious horse thief, who was seen in Georgetown on the 12th instant.

AS the subscriber intends leaving this place in a few weeks to settle in Washington, he requests all those indebted to him, or to DUKE & RIDGELY, to settle their respective accounts—Bacon, Whitkey and flour will be taken in payment. All accounts not settled before that time, will be put into the hands of a proper officer to collect.

Basil Duke.

James Hart.

January 13.
WHEREAS I gave three notes of hand about the eleventh day of February last, to a William Barry, payable the first day of May next: one for a horse of twenty-five pounds value, one other for twelve pounds specie, and one for five pounds trade; this is therefore to forwarn all persons from purchasing the above described notes or either of them, as I am determined not to pay neither of them, as I am security for him to a great amount and he is about to leave this state, and by that means I believe intends settling the whole of his accounts.

LONDON, November 10.

The dispatches received by government from the British army, confirm our account of the attack made by the French on the British outposts on the 27th, 28th, 29th and 30th ult. These attacks, however, do not appear to have been productive of any important consequences. The French continue before Nimeguen and Maestricht. A fortification, attended with some success, had been made from the latter place. It was reported on Saturday and yesterday, that the duke of York had received a reinforcement of 25,000 men. If this be true, it is strange that the Gazette makes no mention of it.

The duke of Brunswick is arrived at Nimeguen, to take upon him the command of the British army.

The most important information that we have received this morning, relates to the negotiations for peace between several of the allied powers and the French Republic.

The king of Prussia, we have strong reasons for believing, has actually concluded a peace with France. It was signed at Neuchâtel on the 12th of last month.

Our letters from Amsterdam assure us, that the king of Spain has also made peace, and that the treaty was signed at Paris on the 18th ult. There is also at Paris an Ambassador, who is negotiating a peace between the Germanic empire and the French Republic.

The emperor of Germany has not yet made any overtures for a termination of hostilities, but our letters from Vienna assure us, that his imperial majesty has expressed a wish for the establishment of peace.

With sentiments of deep regret we communicate to the public the following intelligence which has been received by a merchant at Amsterdam. That the Russians have again been successful against the Polish Patriots; that they have defeated prince Poniatowski, and taken Warsaw by storm. Happy shall we be to be able to contradict this most affecting intelligence.

Letters from Hanburg mention that the gallant Kosciuszko, survived his wounds but a short time; that after his death his head was severed from his body, placed on a pike, and carried through the ranks of the Russian army.

The states of Holland and West Prussia have rejected by a great majority, the plan of a general inundation.

A fresh plot has been discovered at Rome against the life of his holiness the Pope; 300 persons are concerned in it, and 53 of them are in custody.

In our paper of Saturday, we stated, that a fortification was to have been made by the garrison of Nimeguen in the night between the 4th and 5th. We are now enabled to inform the public, that the fortification (principally by the 12th regiment) was made in the night of the 4th, and that it was successful, the greater part of the enemy's works before Nimeguen having been destroyed. [Sun.]

We have several letters from different correspondents in the army, which confirm the advantage gained over the enemy by the garrison of Maestricht in a fortunate fortification which they made a few days ago. Some of our letters state the loss of the French at 2000 killed, others at 2000, and some as high as 4000. Certain it is, it was very considerable; the works of the enemy were destroyed, and their cannon spiked. The Austrians left from 900 to 1000 men in this glorious and fortunate enterprise, which may probably be the means of the fall of Maestricht being raised. [Sun.]

NEW-YORK, January 23.

Perhaps no country, whose inhabitants are really so enlightened, is so duped by its ministers as England. At the beginning of the silly projection against France, Great Britain subsidized the Sardinian King, with the sum of 300,000 sterling annually, to enable him to maintain troops to protect his own dominions—that is in fact to fill him into the confederacy, and if he could not do much good for his purchasers, the money would at least prevent his doing mischief. In short it was a decent ministerial bribe!

Last year the King of Prussia's finances were exhausted, and he called for a bribe. A bribe was offered by Great Britain and Holland, and 60,000 Prussians were hired to kill Frenchmen at the expense of poor Englishmen; but the king takes the money and withdraws the troops!

Another project, more silly if possible, was to take into pay 30,000 emigrant Frenchmen! to fight against their own country. This scheme had the sanction of parliament. Officers for a body of 30,000 troops are appointed—but men are wanting. This scheme, however answers one good purpose—it feeds a great number of refugee nobles and gentlemen, who driven from their own estates have no other means of subsistence.

The last project of subsidizing the Emperor seems to have failed. The reason of this failure is not known. Perhaps John Bull would not come up to his imperial demands, which must be very pretentious—perhaps the emperor could not spare the requisite number of men—yet in this case, he might have followed the example of his royal ally, the king of Prussia; he might have taken the money, and not have furnished the men.

These mad projects are to be graded to princes, that the most intemperate royalist would doubt the right of kings to be masters of nations; for nations never intended the greatest evils to manage government in wisdom. A writer in the beginning of the present century resolved never to believe in the divine right of kings, till he saw subjects born with bouchons on their backs, like camels, and kings with combs on their heads, like cocks, by which sign he should be enabled to collect that the former were designed to labour and suffer; and the latter to strut and crow.

What occasions the high price of our home produce and of labor? This question admits of several answers.

First, the augmentation of circulating medium since the establishment of a great number of banks. Perhaps the various banks circulate fifteen millions of dollars; and add to the medium, a clear increase of five millions.

Second, the stock of the funded debt may have some effect, as an indirect augmentation of circulation.

Third, The principle cause is the war in Europe, which has created an immense demand for many of our articles of export. France alone supports an army, which, with the necessary attendants, amounts to fifteen hundred thousand men—the expense of subsidizing them is supposed equal to the support of six millions, who are at home and in their ordinary occupations. See Lindet's report on the interior state of France.

This immense consumption has exhausted France of her manufactures, and every thing but bare necessities. Salted provisions for her fleets are drawn from America—four has been in demand—and leather and cloth are purchased in great quantities in America for the French armies. The immense demand for these articles in France has been the principal cause of the high price of them in America.

In proportion as the produce of land rises in value, labor and the price of land rise also. The demand for produce creates a demand for labour to cultivate the earth, and this demand draws laborers from mechanical occupations—a want of mechanics is the consequence, and this want raises the price of their labor. Thus the rise and fall of lands and labor regulates the prices of all other articles, and these depend on foreign markets.

Will the prices of all articles; of rent and labor, fall, or will they not? is a question much agitated by our farmers and speculating gentry. The answer is, if peace should take place in Europe, of which there is some prospect, the price of labor and of produce of all kinds will doubtless fall.

Small letters from
